MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

This Old Treatment Often Brings Happy Relief

Many sufferers relieve nagging backaches quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 2 pints a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes show there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Thompson's Borsoma Tablets

Often bring quick relief to sufferers from headaches, dizzy spells and miserable aches and pains. If your kidneys are not carrying off the bodily wastes and excess acid as they should you feel ill and cannot tell why. Thompson's Borsoma Tablets aid the kidneys in filtering out these poisons. They are effective and harmless, but bring relief with amazing comfort.

50c at all drug stores. If constipated take Golden Lax Tablets to assist the good work of Thompson's Borsoma Tablets. (adv.)

Nassau Bay Action Vividly Described In Article From An Associated Press Writer

BY WILLIAM F. BONI
Somewhere in New Guinea, July 14 — (Delayed) — (P) — Twelve of us got aboard a landing barge at Nassau Bay last Friday morning. Twelve of us got off that barge quite a few hours later. In the interim came a brief but all too long sentence in hell—10 minutes, possibly 15 or 20. During those moments, however long they lasted, three Japanese dive bombers and two Zeros had us practically at their mercy. I say practically, because throughout that engagement we had a lone machine-gunning. Another jammed after only four rounds.

Somewhat, in spite of two dive-bombing runs and five or six strafing passes in which the Japanese cannon shells tore at our armor plate, we all survived—three without even a single scratch. Three were merely nicked by flying bits of shrapnel. Six had to be hospitalized, but not one is a serious case.

It was a morning that started off peacefully enough. I hiked a mile down the beach at Nassau Bay at the first light to catch one of the southbound barges and found one run up on the beach unloading.

It was a nice morning—mostly greyish pink clouds in the sky and the sun beginning to warm the sea. The islands off Nassau Bay and the mountains behind it looked deep green. Suddenly from behind one of the islands and flying low, came a twin engine plane. For seconds we held our breaths, then it veered slightly and we saw it was a B-25 Mitchell medium bomber. It banked close by and then buzzed off and disappeared behind another island.

Again we saw a twin-engine plane dart out suddenly from behind an island. This time it was behind us. Again for a second we couldn't be sure what it was. For another second, when there was a sudden bright orange burst along the right wing. I thought they were firing at us.

Then in the same moment the plane veered away from us. Fire blazed out and black smoke poured forth. We knew it was a B-25 and we knew it was in trouble. A moment later it struck the water.

Someone shouted from the well of our boat and pointed up. We all looked at four Zeros turning figurative cartwheels in the sky. At almost the same second, some one else shouted and pointed astern.

There, already coming at us, was a Japanese dive-bomber. I caught only one glimpse and then grabbed my helmet and jumped down into the well.

Crouching against steel bulkheads, we could hear our two guns open fire up above. Then we heard the Japanese guns start barking. Split seconds later we could feel the impact of the slugs on the boat and smell cordite. The dive bomber was gone.

Then he came back. After that pass, one gunner shouted "the gun's jammed."

Maybe it was after this pass, or maybe after the fourth, but anyway each time after the bullets had blasted by, and shrapnel stopped whizzing, all of us had that "well-they-didn't-get-us" — that "time" feeling. Anytime after the third or fourth or fifth time I discovered there was blood oozing through by pants at the left hip.

There must have been half a dozen of those strafing runs, stern and broadside.

There was a brief respite then—a sort of pause for station identification—and then we hit the deck again. These were the last two runs, both by dive bombers. They used their guns. They also dropped about eight to ten bombs, any of which probably would have been enough to sink us. Not a single bomb hit, however.

When they had gone, Barnes still was at work, not satisfied merely with treating the visible wounds, but making everyone half strip to make sure there were no unfelt injuries. He took off the first hasty bandages and put on fresh ones. He distributed sulfanilamide pills.

We all looked around the well of the boat. There were at least 20 jagged holes forward. There were several gaping holes in the flooring. One shot had gone clean through a bathroom suspended two feet above where my head had been.

A 50 caliber cannon shell had turned through the boat, knocked five holes into the engine and put it out of commission.

All of us also wondered what happened to those boys in the B-25. The only thing we could figure might have saved them was the fact they crashed near an island. But more about that a bit later.

In the evacuation hospital I landed in bed next to the pilot of the B-25. He told me he and his crew had been able to reach an island.

Small Arms Students Here Will Qualify

The ninth class of the Warren small arms firing school will qualify for marksmanship at the armory and Cornplanter indoor ranges tonight.

This rifle school is conducted by the members of the Warren Rifle Club and the Cornplanter Gun Club and registrations will be accepted at the armory tonight from persons interested in this pre-induction training.

This school, giving an intensive 12-hour course in shooting, is sponsored by the National Rifle Association of America and conducted under the direction of the civilian marksmanship division of the War Department. In the three-week course, instructors pack into their two nights a week these training items: Sighting and aiming, trigger squeeze, firing positions, rhythm, care and cleaning of a gun, use of sling, sight changes, light and wind, nomenclature and safety.

Paul Yagge, chief instructor, states that the local school rates very high in the country in turning out qualified marksmen. He further states that all the training is done with the .22 calibre rifle for the reason that there's no kick to a .22 and a tyro can learn the trigger squeeze and other fundamentals without fear of the weapon. Once the novice shooter learns the standard shooting positions, standing, sitting, kneeling and prone, with a .22 calibre gun, he can handle any calibre gun with a minimum of trouble. He adds that it doesn't take much training of the right kind to make a good shot out of almost any American and students learn quicker today than in peacetime because they realize that good marksmanship in the army is a matter of life and death.

Any young man who is soon to be inducted should avail himself of this opportunity of training, since advancement in the service is rapid and there is a great need of trained instructors for the army, where only one out of every 50 young men inducted know anything of firearms.

Those who are unable to go to the armory this evening for registering are asked to get in touch with any of the following: John H. Schuler, Roger Mahaffy, Stewart Kuhre, V. P. Dorrance, W. E. Wine-riter, Perry Sweet, Alfred Nelsen, Norman Kuhre or Paul Yagge.

Recruiting Office Open This Evening

Officers of the Civil Air Patrol Squadron 53 will be on hand at the recruiting office in Room 510, Warren National Bank building, to interview applicants interested in becoming aviation cadets in the Army Air Forces. This office will be open between the hours of 7 and 9 this evening and every Thursday. Any young man between the ages of 17 and 26, inclusive, is eligible if in good health. Parents are invited to accompany their sons to the recruiting office if they wish.

It is hoped that a large number of our young men will avail themselves of this opportunity to enlist in the service of their choice. Attention is called to the fact that 17-year-old boys, if accepted, are enlisted in the Air Corps Enlisted Reserve until they reach their 18th birthday. If in college or high school upon reaching their 18th birthday, they may, upon request, have their call to active duty deferred until the end of their current semester, provided it is completed not later than six months after their 18th birthday.

GOOD WORD FOR THE WACS

The WACS have proved their usefulness. They are better fitted in many cases for the jobs they are doing than the men they replaced. Capt. Charles H. Frizzell, Jr., of Philadelphia, who has been working in the psychological examination of WAC recruits, says this and adds:

"They seemed to have just the right combination of patience and accuracy to make good communications specialists, for one thing. Also the right mental and muscular co-ordination for good motor vehicle drivers and the right manual dexterity for automotive mechanics and other technical work. The great majority had ideal qualities for office jobs, either administrative or clerical."

It is not true, said Capt. Frizzell, that women are emotionally unfitted for war. They are constantly meeting the emergencies in home life to which they rise and meet the crises very well. Capt. Frizzell was a veteran of the first World War, called back to duty at this time. He has had plenty of opportunity for judging both men and women. He is enthusiastic over the part women are playing. Above all he emphasizes the great need of more WACS. The army needs thousands of all sorts of specialists and technicians—parachute riggers, optometrists, proof readers, weather observers, radio operators, cryptanalysts, topographic draftsmen, photographers.

The Navy needs WAVES and SPARS. The Marines need women, too. Both army and navy need nurses by the thousands. There can hardly be too many enlistments. There is even talk of drafting women if enough do not volunteer. It's great work for fine young women.

HOLDING OUT ON US

A shortage of table pepper looms, and it appears that one reason is because two investment houses, which have half the country's supply, decline to sell it at OPA ceiling price of 6 1/2 cents a pound.

Beef is all but disappearing from the nation's tables. Slaughterhouse receipts are off 37 per cent, and almost half of what does come in has to be set aside for the armed forces. Yet the nation's cattle population is at an all-time high. Producers are reported selling for higher than ceiling prices on the black market, or holding for a raise.

In these instances, at least, food shortages demonstrably are artificial. The food exists. The machinery for getting it into consumer stomachs has broken down. What is Washington going to do about it?

LOWER VOTING AGE

A Gallup survey reports that sentiment is shifting toward the proposal that the voting age be lowered to 18, on the ground that men old enough to fight are old enough to participate in government.

In many instances, 18-year-olds are as intelligent and as informed as men and women many years their senior. But they do lack one thing that is very useful in voting—they do not have a background of experience against which to judge the allegations and the promises made by officeholders.

The young are ambitious, courageous, experimental. They like to try new ventures. Then, as years pass, they discover that what—at 18—they supposed to be a promising new idea turns out to be the same old guff that has been failing off and on for centuries.

MESSAGE TO POLES

Warren county's residents of Polish descent, and there are many families to be found in the Pittsfield and Spring Creek areas, will be interested in a tribute broadcast Wednesday by Prime Minister Churchill to the late General Vladyslaw Sirkorski, who was killed in a plane accident recently.

Churchill called on Poles everywhere to prepare themselves to die for Poland, "as many of us must die and Premier Sirkorski died for his country and the common cause."

Addressing Poles over all the world, Churchill urged them to remember that Sirkorski strove for collaboration with Poland's Allies in the west and east because he was convinced that in such partnership rested assurance of Poland's speedy liberation.

In August, 1937, Premier Mussolini said, puffing like a pigeon: "Not one enemy soldier will ever land in Sicily." Today's news seems to indicate that it won't be long until "every Italian will be off the Island."

Be sure to keep those letters going to friends and relatives in the service.

Washington in Wartime

By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON—The move to streamline Congress, predicted here some months ago, has finally been brought into the open in the Senate at least. Sen. Robert M. La Follette, Jr., Wisconsin Progressive, has introduced legislation which would result in a thorough overhaul of the Senate committee system.

Almost overlooked in the hectic closing sessions before the summer recess, the Senator's proposal may well become the basis for the long-awaited streamlining, without which—many members of both chambers now agree—Congress can't hope to fulfill with any independence its function as the legislative branch of government.

THERE are now 33 standing committees of the Senate. Senator La Follette would reduce these to 13. Eight of these would be substantive committees and would be limited to 12 members each, none of which could serve on any one of the other eight. The other five would be committees of more or less administrative function and their membership would range from 12 to 24.

Probably the most sweeping change would be the establishment of a committee on the Armed Forces, which would absorb the Military Affairs and Naval Affairs committees.

The Senator's eight substantive committees would be Agriculture; Armed Forces; Finance and Monetary Affairs; Foreign Relations; Interior, Natural Resources and Public Works; Interstate Commerce; Judiciary; Labor and Public Welfare.

The five "administrative" committees would be Appropriations; Expenditures in Executive Departments; Rules and Administration of the Senate; Claims; and District of Columbia.

ITS almost impossible for the layman to comprehend the unwieldiness of the committee system today; the confusions that result from overlapping jurisdictions and a lack of cooperation between Senate and House committees, which Senator La Follette's bill specifically provides for; and the great power the committees and committee chairmen exercise in promoting or withholding legislation.

The system "just grew" and is perpetuated because chairmen and members in both chambers jealously guard the authority and patronage which seniority in these legislative groups give them.

Therein lies the rub in changing the system now. Actually only four of the present committees would be perpetuated without change. That means that the members, numbering from seven to 20 each, and the chairmen of 29 committees would certainly balk at the prospect of losing these Senatorial plums. The situation would be even worse in the House where there are 45 standing and seven special committees, on which membership numbers up to 43 representatives.

Fire this morning at 9 o'clock damaged the building owned by John Keller and occupied by the Warren Taxi Company, operated by Ray Norris. All cars of the company were out with the exception of two Rickenbacker machines which were shoved out of the building by Mike Kennedy, an employee.

Seven hucksters were on the curb market this morning. Black raspberries were offered at 35 cents; a few strawberries at 25 cents; cherries 15 to 25 cents and eggs were 30 cents the dozen.

Manager French Duncan has secured Harold MacLay, of Jamestown as a pitcher for the local outfit of ball players. MacKay is touted as a good pitcher and it is hoped he makes good.

Dr. and Mrs. Walter Beck who have been visiting friends in the city for the past two weeks left today for their home in Selins Grove where the Rev. Beck is filling a pulpit. While here he enjoyed some good fishing.

Curtis Gibson, John Schumacher, Don Alexander, Elmer Turnquist and Harold Johnson are enjoying an outing at one of the cottages at Oakview Park. The boys report some fine catches of fish and some overtime sleeping.

Quite a crowd of Warren fans went to Jamestown yesterday to see the exhibition game between the Jamestown Pirates and the Pittsburgh Pirates. Swat Erickson and Art Johnson did the twirling for Jamestown and allowed the Pirates 17 safe bingles. The final score was Pirates 13 and Jamestown 6.

Street Commissioner Larson is moving back the curbing at the east approach to the Fifth avenue bridge. This will be greatly appreciated by motorists in making the turn onto the bridge.

Over 150 guests visited Camp Chedwell on Chautauque Lake Sunday where girls of the YWCA are enjoying an outing. A good program had been arranged for the day and a happy time was enjoyed by campers and guests.

Supper will be served at 5 o'clock to the members of the GAR Auxiliary tomorrow when they will have a picnic at the Kidder farm at North Warren.

Three fires in three hours kept the department hopping yesterday. None of the fires amounted to much in the way of damage but the firemen were busy cleaning up hose and apparatus after each alarm.

James Cruickshank, of North Warren one of the community's Al fishermen landed a trout in Hatch Run yesterday that is one of the seasons best. It measured 21 1/2 inches and weighed three and three-quarters pounds when measured and weighed by a skeptical newshound.

dition, of course, each news agency and the larger newspapers have their own correspondents filling direct from bases in North Africa, over facilities which have been steadily improved and expanded since the British and Americans took over.

The advantages of pooling news are twofold: All newspapers can get a complex picture of every diverse phase of the complex land, sea and air campaign; and at the same time, the burden of news wordage does not interfere with radio circuits which are jammed with military orders and reports.

A correspondent's story from the battlefield is sent to Algiers by the army signal corps, probably by plane or fast ship, to avoid jamming wireless circuits needed for military messages. Cleared

Hollywood Gossip

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—There is nothing quite like the love of one vaudeville for another—especially when they're not working in the same picture.

Alan Carney and Wally Brown, veteran vaudevillians, are co-starring in a new picture called "Adventures of a Rookie."

That makes them a team. They're the best of friends, old pals, a mutual admiration society. Out on the field of battle, in front of the camera, there's nothing either would do to help his buddy along by topping his gag, inching closer to the camera, or wriggling an ear to attract attention to himself. Some say the picture can never be finished because each of the boys has to have the last word.

I FOUND the two funny men slipping into their G. I. in a canvas dressing room off the set. With surprisingly few questions I managed to get them to talk about themselves.

"We've known each other for years," said Al Carney.

"But never played together—always followed each other on the circuits," said Wally Brown. "I was at Paramount theater on Broadway—did five weeks—and Wally was in the State across the street. I went over to tell him I was coming to the coast for RKO—to play with Cary Grant in 'Mr. Lucky'."

"It's tough for a talking comedian to get along at the Paramount," said Wally Brown. "You work in front of a band and the jitters bug will murder you if you don't like you. I did six weeks of it."

RICHARD MARTIN, new young actor, came in with a script. "What lines are you ad libbing today?" he asked.

"Heh, heh, heh," a laughing duet from the funny men. "We're always trying out new lines in front of the camera."

"One of these days," said handsome Richard, "I'm going to do an ad lib myself and throw you off."

"Heh!" Wally Brown leaped to the idea. "Why don't you spring one? You spring one, and then I'll say—"

"Heh!" chorled Alan Carney. "Anybody could guess that you would say something."

Wally Brown laughed, and together they launched into a play-by-play description of the plot of "Rookie." After this one, they're to make two more, fast, because Alan Carney is being paged by Uncle Sam. Wally Brown is 32, and a page besides.

"Heh," said Wally. "Here we are talking about our next picture, and we haven't finished this one!"

The funny men were called to the set to do one of those scenes in which both try to get through a door together and get stuck. Their necks get a good workout—from stretching toward the camera.

News of Sicilian Battles Is Reaching Home Fronts Faster

By STERLING F. GREEN

Washington, July 15.—(AP)—Better communications, army aid in getting the news out, and a willingness by United States newspapers and press services to "pool" their eyewitness stories are bringing to American newspaper readers a uniquely vivid and well-rounded picture of the Sicilian invasion.

The volume of military news from Sicily, despite the greater remoteness of that island in terms of communications, was said by Lieut. Col. Albert L. Warner of army public relations today to be enormously larger than was transmitted in the early stages of the North African landings last November, and it is coming through faster.

This "pool" is used mainly for eyewitness accounts of sorties and operations on which only one or two writers can be taken. In addition, each news agency and the larger newspapers have their own correspondents filling direct from bases in North Africa, over facilities which have been steadily improved and expanded since the British and Americans took over.

The advantages of pooling news are twofold: All newspapers can get a complex picture of every diverse phase of the complex land, sea and air campaign; and at the same time, the burden of news wordage does not interfere with radio circuits which are jammed with military orders and reports.

MURDER IN TIN

By CARL A. PETERSON

Chapter 6
"HE breath poured out of my lungs. My fists clenched, but I kept them pressed against my thighs. I didn't have to be reminded of the gun in the American's pocket.
Mirtlo shrugged. "Ah, senor. I regret this. But why do you admit you know Taggard?"
"I don't know either of the Taggards," I said. "What do you tend to do with me?"
"That's talking sense," the exan said. "Okay, you're a big S.A. guy. But ain't it the dough at counts? What does the U.S.A. say you?" he asked.
"Los Estados Unidos," Mirtlo said spitefully. Ah, the New Order will show you republicans!"
For an instant, I thought Mirtlo was crazy. His voice was so pitched and fanatic. His grey eyes were burning. I had never thought that his kind of eyes could ever warm up for anything.
"I said, Mirtlo, did you really see Taggard's expedition as you claimed at the Hotel Fajon?"
"HE Texan laughed. "Keep on talking that way, Mirtlo, and I'll believe it yourself. Fined what? Your supper, your mid?"
"I have some investments, Mirtlo," Mirtlo began.
"Some. Yeh. Two pesos," the exan retorted. His name wasn't Mirtlo, of course. He had probably forgotten his real name for the seventh or eighth alias. Mental blueprint of Johnson's was becoming fairly complete. I was a mobster who would work for any leader who paid the line. It was inevitable for me to drift into the biggest mob history."
"We've wasted a lot of time with you, Calder," he said to me. "Now straight out. Do you come or don't you?"

"Come across with what?"
"How much tin's the smelter going to produce?"
I just looked at him. I expected what was to come, but still it was a surprise. His speed of movement was like nothing I had ever seen. His fist smashed against my jaw. The pain ripped through my head, and the room went black as a shaft hole. I rubbed my eyes and I saw two of him. He had a little satisfied grin on his lips as if he liked this sort of work. "How about it, Calder?" he said.
"A mine or a smelter's a complicated affair," I said, stalling. "You can't describe it in talk."
"Sure, you need plans, drawings," Johnson said. "How do we get them?"
"I said nothing."
"DAMN you," he cried. His fist caught me on the temple and my arms went dead. Then another fist. My brain went dead. I stared at my hands. They were pressed against the floor. I stared at the floor. I was on hands and knees on the floor.
"Senor," a voice called to me from some height. Mirtlo was looking down at me. His foot lifted and kicked into my side. I keeled over.
"Get up!"
That was Johnson. I heard his voice, but I couldn't move.
"Get up!"
I made another effort and sat up on the floor. My mouth felt wet. I wiped it with my fingers. The wetness was blood. I couldn't remember being hit on the mouth. "Calder!" I heard Johnson calling. I glanced at him and I saw a man in a brown suit whose hands were handcuffed behind his back. He staggered forward into the kerosene light. A cloth gag was bulging his cheeks out.
Johnson turned towards the gagged man. "Hey, you Taggard!"
I breathed hard. Sam Taggard! They had him, too!
Then I felt that Johnson was lying even though this man checked with Sam Taggard's description. The same height, the same weight, the same dark complexion. So I had only caught up with Taggard to lose him. Loss, terrific and mountainous, crushed me. Loss of Taggard, loss of the tin, loss of my own life.

Army Plane Flown Here By Local Boy Excites Interest

Many persons were attracted to the local airport last evening and early this morning to get a glimpse at the AT-6 brought in yesterday afternoon by Lt. Warren Decker, of the Army Air Corps, at Tyndall Field, Fla.

Coming in from Pittsburgh on the second leg of his journey, the young officer paid a brief visit to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Decker, 110 Irvine street, and left against today for his southern station.

Training affairs are running smoothly at the local port under "Slip" King's guidance, with students being readied for further work in several branches of service.

D. P. Clark, of Titusville, has started his training as a commercial instructor, with about 35 hours already realized toward his required 200.
Phil Hanna, Pioneer street, has just about completed his written work and has only 25 more hours to go toward his instructor's rating, according to King.
A third student, Martha McFarland, has just soloed for the first time in her work toward training for the Women's Army Ferry Service. The WAFS must have 35 hours' flying time before they can make application for this branch of service and, work at their local ports completed, they are sent to Texas for advanced instruction.

TIMES TOPIOS

CROP IS SMALL
Reports to Warren fruit dealers from Erie county are to the effect that the peach crop will be the smallest in history. The severe winter killed off about 80% of the crop but it is thought that young trees now coming along will provide a normal crop in 1944 barring any untoward attacks on the orchards this winter.

WORKERS STILL BUSY

Volunteer workers over the county are continuing the registration of applicants for canning sugar. The work is long and arduous and the women who are doing it voluntarily are deserving of much credit. In this connection it may be said that there is no encouragement of any kind connected with the work and the giving of valuable time and effort is purely from a patriotic standpoint.

Night Attack Made Against Rail Junction

In the fighting yesterday around Belgorod, the Red army was said to have knocked out 100 German tanks, shot down 47 planes and killed more than 2,000 of the enemy. Aerial engagements elsewhere brought the day's bag of Nazi planes to 158, the Russians said.

PAROLE BOARD GIVES 29 THEIR FREEDOM

Harrisburg, July 15.—(P)—The state parole board reported today it has granted freedom to 29 prisoners whose terms were commuted previously by the state board of pardons.
The disclosure came after Chairman Henry C. Hill of the parole board insisted on releasing only names of those prisoners whose cases had come before the pardon board. That policy was called "a new menace to public safety" by Safety Director George A. Fairley of Pittsburgh, who called for publication of all names.
"We will continue to release names of men freed after their sentences are commuted by the pardon board," Hill replied.

NEW JERSEY FISHERMEN THREATENING TO QUIT

Philadelphia, July 15.—(P)—Unless proposed price ceilings for fish in New Jersey are made high enough, say fishermen, Jersey fishermen may quit.
Harry T. Willis, wholesale fish buyer from New Jersey, made the threat yesterday as this city became threatened by a fish famine through the cessation of shipments from New England.
Dealers said New England fishermen were remaining home in protest against price ceilings. Philadelphia normally receives 36,000 of New England fish daily.

Fireworks Still Popping Among Brooklyn Dodgers

Boisterous Bobo Newsom Is Traded To St. Louis Browns But Says He Will Not Report

BY JUDSON BAILEY

Associated Press Sports Writer

Fireworks still are popping among the Brooklyn Dodgers and that loud noise you heard last night was Louis Norman (Bobo) Newsom exploding as he was bounced out of the Brooklyn baseball parlor.

The latest repercussions from the Dodgers' family feud were a statement by Branch Rickey, president of the club, that he would support Manager Leo Durocher to the limit and an announcement that Newsom, the cause celebre of last week's rebellion, had been traded to the St. Louis Browns for a pair of antiquated southpaws, Fritz Ostermuller and Archie McKain.

Newsom, never at loss for words, roared in defiance:

"I don't want to play in St. Louis. I won't play in St. Louis and I'm not going to report."

"I got the dirtiest deal any ball player ever got. I've been the goat all the way through this thing. I guess I'll have to quit and I will quit before reporting to St. Louis. I heard about this only yesterday afternoon and I offered to buy my release from the Brooklyn club, but was refused."

Whether or not the boisterous Bobo goes through with his threat remains to be seen. Changing uniforms is no novelty to him for even before today he was the most traded pitcher in the big leagues and in 13 seasons in the National and American Leagues had played variously with Brooklyn, the Chicago Cubs, Boston Red Sox, Detroit Tigers, Washington Senators and St. Louis Browns. In fact, during his long career he had been with the Browns, Brooklyn and Washington twice each.

Newsom, if he reports, will help the Browns. He won 29 games for them in both 1938 and 1939 and in 1940 he won 21 and lost only 5 in leading Detroit to the American League pennant.

His patching this year has been the most consistent of any of the Dodgers hurlers and his present record of nine victories and four defeats is one of the best in the National League. Although the Dodgers need southpaws, Ostermuller and McKain, both veterans now relegated to relief roles, cannot be expected to match Newsom's work.

But Rickey felt that either Durocher or Newsom would have to go as the result of the insurrection of the players last Saturday, when they revolted because Newsom had been suspended for what the manager later termed "general insubordination" and more specifically described as refusal to follow pitching instructions.

Rickey said he would not have let Durocher resign, even if the manager had wanted to, and that he was right in disciplining Newsom. "No coaches, players, or anybody else can tell a manager how to run his ball club," he asserted, and added, "I will continue to give him my loyal support."

Just how the players, who revolted over a three-day suspension for Newsom, would react to the banishment of their star pitcher was a problem which puzzled some observers.

FOOTBALL FIREBALL IS TO BE A MARINE BOOT

Atlanta, July 15.—(P)—Flat-foot Frankie Sinkwich, the football fireball, becomes a marine "boot" today, but Frankie still thinks the gridiron is his destiny and he's looking forward to a lucrative professional career at the war's end.

The backfield ace, who galloped and passed his way to all-America fame with Wallace Butts' University of Georgia Bulldogs, recently was tapped by the Detroit Lions of the National Football League, but he signed with the Marines as a reserve last fall before he went into his final Bulldog season.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.
New York, July 15.—(P)—The A. A. U. handbook probably won't list any new broad jumping records established by sports writers in July, 1943, but from here it seems that the boys have made some remarkably long leaps at conclusions about what Branch Rickey would say to Leo Durocher.

and vice versa... we don't know what 'de revolution' in Brooklyn amounted to, nor what Leo actually said about resigning, but anybody who gave the matter a serious second thought realized that Rickey would have to stand back of his manager as long as possible... the general impression when (Turn to Page Ten)

SPORT SHORTS

Chicago, July 15.—(P)—Sgt. Joe Louis, once he enrolled in Tam O'Shanter's All-American amateur golf tournament, wasted little time getting in a round of practice over the scene of next week's big show. Now on army furlough, the heavy-weight boxing champion made his official entry yesterday and asked permission to play 18 holes today.

Chicago, July 15.—(P)—Eddie Smith, known last year to Chicago White Sox fans as "Hard-luck Edgar" because of numerous games he lost by one run, may come to be known as "Last-Chance Smith" to his ribbing teammates. Smith has been restored to good graces by Manager Jimmy Dykes after his suspension from lackadaisical training and will join the Sox on their next eastern trip Sunday night.

Cooperstown, N. Y., July 15.—(P)—A sign on Doubleday Field, where the Chicago White Sox and the Brooklyn Dodgers play the annual Shrine game July 19, says: "Horse and people this way; no cars allowed." For emphasis, a $10 prize will be awarded the driver of the horse-drawn vehicle bringing the most persons from outside the village limits.

VAN ROBAYS MAY PLAY FOR PIRATES TONIGHT

Pittsburgh, July 15.—(P)—The Pittsburgh Pirates awaited the arrival today of outfielder Maurice Van Robays, recalled from the Toronto International last night. If he gets here in time, there was a possibility he might be used in tonight's game, first of a series with the league-leading St. Louis Cardinals.

Van Robays was sent to Toronto early this season under a 24-hour recall agreement. He hit .315 with that club and batted in 81 runs.

Sewell Says With Bobo the Browns Will Win the Pennant

St. Louis, July 15.—(P)—Louis (Bobo) Newsom is coming back to his American League alma mater—possibly.
If he reports, he'll get the job of pitching the St. Louis Browns to the pennant. That's what Manager Luke Sewell asserts, and Sewell is convinced Newsom will join the club regardless of the ex-

Dodgers' flat statement in New York that:

"I don't want to play in St. Louis. I won't play in St. Louis!"
Sewell just smiles and says: "I believe Newsom will be a big help in winning the pennant. Our hitting is getting better. With a fine pitcher like Bobo in there, we should climb fast."
Bulky Bobo was traded by the Brooklyn Dodgers to the Browns yesterday in return for relief pitchers Fred Ostermuller and Archie McKain. He brings with him an impressive record of nine victories and four losses against a combined record of one win and three setbacks registered for St. Louis by the Dodgers' new properties.

Sewell said Don Barnes, president, and William O. Dewitt, vice president and general manager, negotiated the trade in the east with his full approval.

Sewell expects no trouble from Newsom, whose suspension caused the Dodgers' rebellion against Manager Leo Durocher last Saturday, he said.

We Salute AMERICA'S WOMEN WAR WORKERS

We take off our hats to the millions of women—and men who are laboring night and day to produce the guns, ships, tanks and ammunition with which our forces are steadily going about the job of licking the Axis. No one can doubt the final outcome of the battle of production. When victory is won the soldiers of the production lines will have had as great a part in it as the men at the front. We salute the women—and men who work at this great job.

Recapture of Kiska Island Imperative

however, and in the absence of more recent official information on the subject are currently arousing intense speculation here.

Possibly the most important of these is the weather, which in the Aleutians area is never good and at this season is steadily going from bad to worse.

The alternative to an attack this year is to let the Japanese suffer the ravages of another rough Aleutian winter with few if any supplies reaching them. They can be bombed repeatedly when weather permits, the nearest American airbase on Amchitka Island being only 63 nautical miles away. Already they are virtually blockaded with Amchitka on one side and Attu on the other, 173 nautical miles to the northwest.

To leave the enemy on the island, however, would deprive American forces of a valuable base for offensive thrusts against Japan, which even now are indicated or developing.

The shortest route to Japan by air or sea, is across the North Pacific.

State Forest Park Opening On August 1st

Harrisburg, July 14—(P)—Pennsylvania's newest forest park—Ricketts' Glen in Luzerne county—will be opened to the public August 1.

The 1,261-acre tract of shaded woodland acquired recently by the state is only a part of the 10,612 acres in the Glen but the state-owned portion includes some 30 waterfalls along Kitchen Creek.

Purchase of the whole Glen was authorized by the 1943 legislature, which appropriated $150,000 for the purpose, and Milford Bratton, chief of parks in the Department of Forests and Waters, said the remainder of the region would be acquired in the next two years.

James A. Kell, secretary of Forests and Waters, who inspected the three-mile long state-owned area on foot last week, said he was "very much pleased" with the prospect of making the Glen the commonwealth's foremost scenic attraction.

Bratton said the park will be kept as "natural as possible" and maintained as virgin forest. The department is expected to construct nature trails throughout the park.

If They Want To Eat, City Folks Must Help the Farmers

By MARTIN H. BRACKBILL

Harrisburg, July 15 — (AP)—Pennsylvania's billion-dollar agricultural industry heads into the crucial 1943 harvest season with the war-imposed farm manpower shortage still plaguing it.

Hay-making and wheat cutting are under way on many of the commonwealth's 156,000 farms and their operators—short-handed with thousands of former farm hands in the armed forces or war plants—are appealing to their city cousins for a lift.

"City people have got to realize they have to help if we're going to eat next winter," declared J. M. Fry, of State College, head of the state's emergency farm labor placement program. He added farmers that are eager for even a day's help a week from city dwellers.

Farm leaders are at odds, however, on how effective the labor placement program will be in supplying farmers with extra hands to harvest vital crops from an estimated 7,000,000 acres in Pennsylvania.

Miles Horst, state secretary of agriculture, declared a survey of the labor situation shows "that we are able to meet the demands as they arise" and Governor Martin promise some 40,000 state employees will be thrown in the breach should any emergency demand arise.

On the other hand, George Pfeiffer, 3rd, of Philadelphia, chairman of the Penn-Jersey crop corps, asserted the placement program is "incapable of doing the job under red tape restrictions, inexperienced leadership and federal agency jealousies" and that "food is rotting in the ground."

Fry said farmers somehow are managing day-to-day chores but that harvests of vital foodstuffs will require extra hands and that the "biggest demand for help will come in the latter part of July and August."

The organization set up by the Agricultural Extension Service in every Pennsylvania county is now recruiting workers to meet this seasonal demand with the co-operation of industry, service clubs and youth organizations, Fry said.

So far, 3,000 persons, many of them women and high school youths, have been placed on farms, Fry reported, 290 coming from Philadelphia and another 240 from Luzerne county. In Mercer county, where 49 were hired, only four were men, the remainder being women and students.

Estimates of the eventual numbers of workers required have not been completed, Fry added, while the state Department of Agriculture has discontinued its periodic check on farm employment. Last year at this period, 285,000 were employed on farms, 207,000 of them family workers.

Use of high school boys and girls for lighter work is planned by the placement service. Fry said thousands will be employed in the potato and tomato harvests in York, Adams, Northumberland, Union and Snyder counties in August and in the fruit picking season in September and October.

Twenty labor camps to house fruit pickers in the counties of Lehigh, Bucks, Berks, Adams, Franklin, Erie, Potter and Cumberland, will be opened for the peach, apple and vegetable harvests, with barns, vacant warehouses and other buildings being pressed into service.

"The biggest problem is finding experienced workers for dairy farms," declared Fry, adding this condition prevails generally throughout the state, since 35 per cent of the state's farm income comes from dairying. "You can't take a man and make him an ex-

neither Branch nor Leo turned up for the All-Star game Tuesday was that they were holding their discussion privately while the scribes were in Philadelphia. . . . and sure enough, the publicized conference didn't take place yesterday but Rickey came out with a statement that Durocher still is "in."

Short Thought

If Rickey did give Durocher the heave-ho, or let him resign, he'd be on the spot himself the rest of the season. . . . any new manager would have to cure the dissension on the club and get the skidding bums back into the pennant fight—two tough jobs. . . . so if Branch let Durocher out and the move wasn't successful, the directors might let Branch out with no more ceremony. . . . he's only a hired hand, too.

Shorter Thought

Rickey was laid up yesterday with indigestion. . . . Wonder if he swallowed some of those stories about the Dodgers? . . . or some of Durocher's words? . . . or maybe his own pride?

One-Minute Sports Page

If Gunder Haegg returns to Sweden by plane instead of by tanker, he'll likely make his farewell appearance at Yankee Stadium about Aug. 21 instead of at New Orleans. And he may try for a mile record at Princeton as a build-up for the last show . . .

Louis Angel Firpo plans to send his amateur heavyweight, Abel Costac, to the United States this fall in hopes of building him into a heavyweight title contender. Rancher Firpo says he's had an invitation from Jack Dempsey, but the fight mob might appreciate it more if he left Costac at home and shipped a couple of steers instead. . . . New Jersey's Baltusrol golf club has added 101 more sheep to its menagerie and now has 185 animals on the premises.

Today's Guest Star

Havey J. Boyle, Pittsburgh Post-Gazette: "That rumbling to the east is the call of the wild—the wild Brooklyn fans, a measure of whose capacity for denunciation is to be had from the fact that the most flowery term in their vocabulary of praise is 'our Buns.' What such a dubious accolade born of success will change to in failure will make a fishwife's vocabulary the essence of circumspection."

TIMES TOPICS

COUNCIL POSTPONES

The regular meeting of the Warren Civic Council, scheduled for July 16, has been postponed two weeks to July 30.

NUMERALS CHANGED

Again the figures have been upped on the Bell Telephone Company's service flag, the numerals now showing 1,275 employees in the state in the armed forces. The Warren District, which has headquarters offices here, accounts for a good share of these.

PRICES ARE LOWER

The "roll back" in the price of certain vegetables caused the prices of the goods affected to drop several cents this week. Housewives doing their shopping were greatly pleased to find cabbage and other green goods at a price considerably lower than it has been.

HOLLYHOCKS BLOOMING

One of the bright spots in the center of the city is in the small parkway at the rear of the Soldier and Sailors monument at the bridgehead on Hickory street. Numbers of hollyhocks there are in bloom and the bright flowers in a myriad of colors are highly attractive and many visit the place to view them.

WALL RISING

The cinder block walls of the Fourth ward fire station are rising in good shape with men in the employ of William Cook on the job. It is hoped to get the building finished and occupied within a few weeks as the quarters now occupied cost the borough $30 per month rental and there has already been much delay in getting the new structure completed.

RESULTS DISAPPOINT

Enrollment of women between the ages of 21 and 25 at the Federal Employment office yesterday for training in a specialized field were highly disappointing. There were few who called and Manager Levine was keenly disappointed. The place that will be won by the trainees in a specialized work will be exorbitant and it is to be hoped that if another registration is announced that better results will be obtained.

perenced dairy hand over night. With each county having its own peculiar problems, Fry said local citizens' farm labor committees composed of farmers, business men and civic leaders are working out their own solutions, the state-wide organization assisting with outside workers when the local supply is insufficient.

S. Frommeyer, Dauphin county agricultural agent and supervisor of the county's farm labor program, said 50 persons have been placed on farms in the past few weeks but adds "we could easily place 50 more."

Most of those assigned, Frommeyer explained, are husky high school boys who are helping with the hay-making and added: "The reports we are getting back from the farmers are that the boys are doing well, all of them were inexperienced and came from cities or towns but they're willing to learn."

Frommeyer said some farm hands are still leaving the farms for other jobs despite government action to keep them employed in agriculture. He and Cassell agree that the end of drafting of farmers for the armed services has been of help.

"There are a thousand acres in my neighborhood that would not have been farmed this year but for that," declared Cassell, State selective service headquarters says all bonafide farmers and farm workers are being deferred by local draft boards.

Mrs. Russell Bower, Shippensburg, president of the Pennsylvania Society of Farm Women, asserted, however, farm boys already in the armed services should be ordered back home by the army, saying as it is now "they have to ask to go back and they won't ask."
